5 Learning Strategies for improving your English

Resources

Warm Up: Discussion

- Why are you learning English?
- What are your best and worst English skills?
- How do you learn best?

What Are Learning Strategies?

- Learning strategies are methods that students use to learn.
- Learning new strategies can help you learn better and faster and allow you to remember what you learn.

1. Set Learning Goals

Be clear about what you want to learn and why.

Write it down and share it.

- Provides a path to success
- Increases motivation
- Measure your progress
- Provides focus and purpose
- Provides challenge

Question: What's Your Goal?

2. Use Repetition

- Remember, practice makes perfect.
- Brings the skill from the conscious to the subconscious.
- Try repeating words, phrases, songs, questions, etc.
- Space out the intervals.

Question: What English song
do you sing the most?

3. Get Lots of Exposure

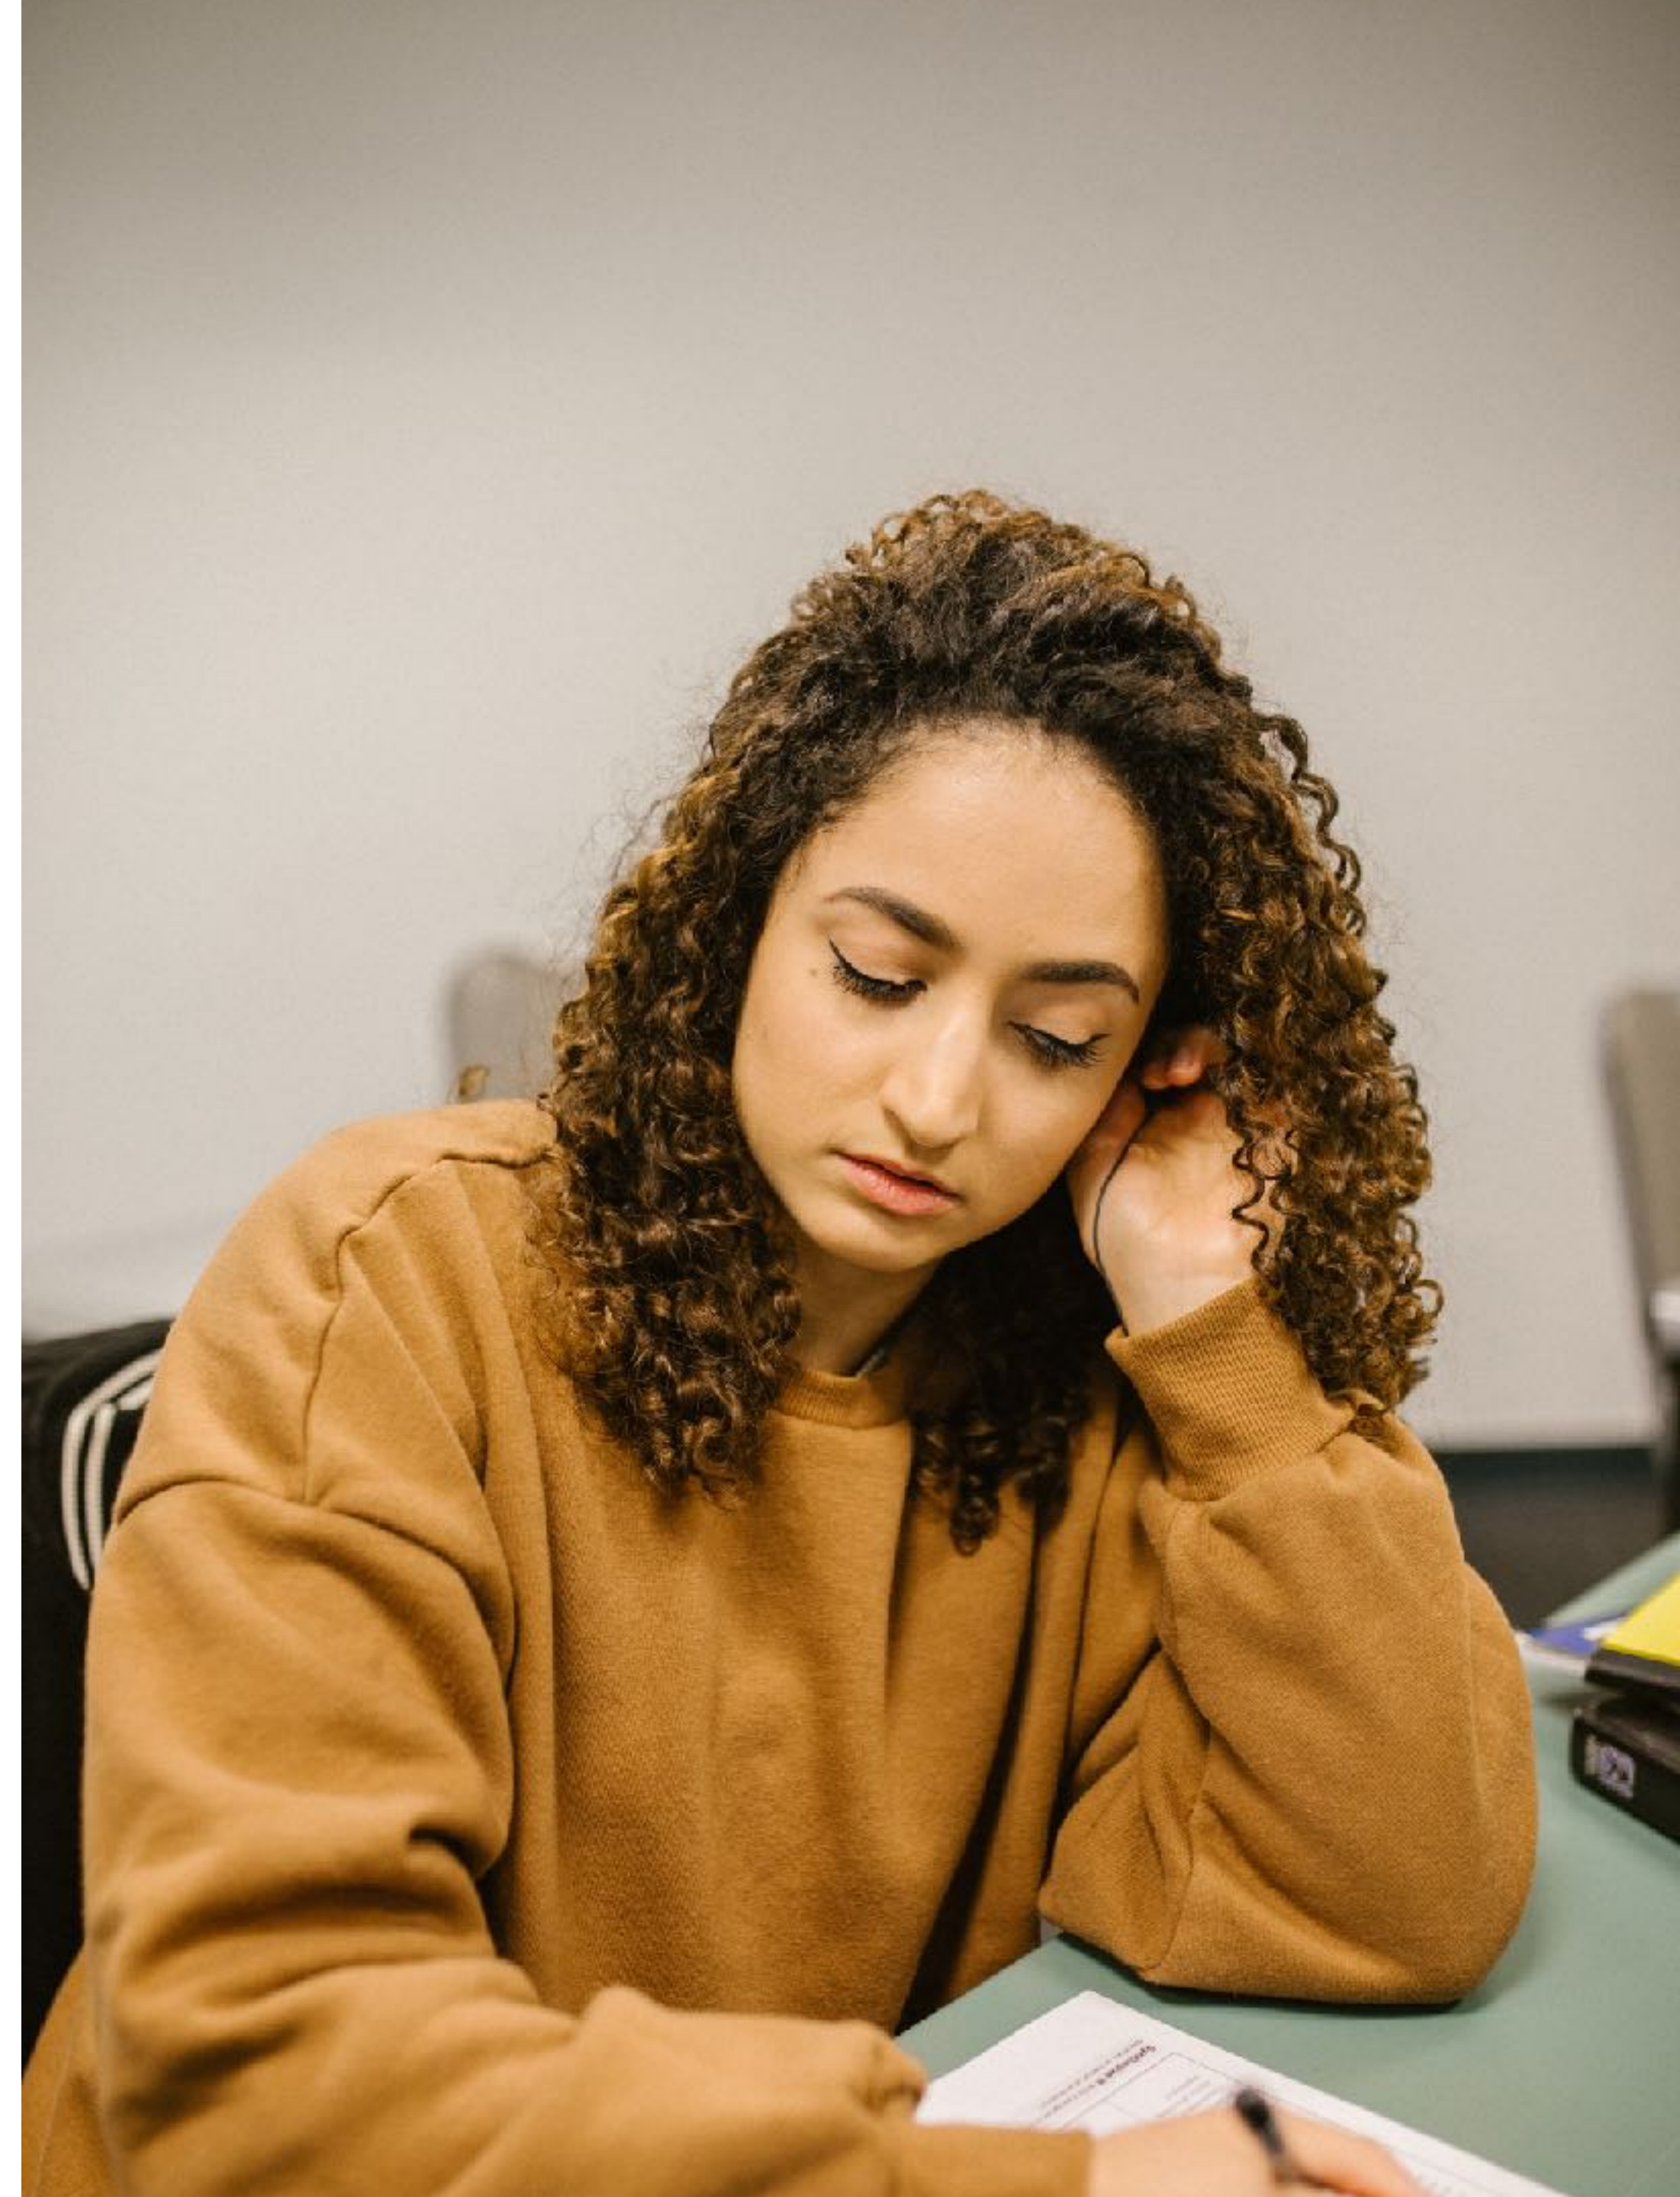

- You need to get lots of exposure to a language in order to learn it properly.
- Experts say about 1 hour per day and 30 minutes of study are enough.
- Be consistent.

Question: How many hours per week do you practice
English?

4. Test Yourself

- Testing yourself regularly will help you retain what you learn.
- Try giving yourself a spelling, vocabulary, or grammar test.
- Ask yourself, what did I read/hear.
- Ask for feedback from teachers, family or friends.

Question: Who can you ask to test you?

5. Don't Translate

- To improve in English, you'll need to start thinking in English.
- Translating slows you down.

Question: Do you still use translation to learn?
